Scotch families of Robeson and Cumberland counties, N. C., being in the sixty-eighth year of her age. She was happy in the faith and abounded in labors of love.

Richardson: Mrs. Christian Richardson, of Cumberland county, N. C., departed this life May 26, 1915, being thirty-eight years of age. Gentleness, faithfulness, and patience were the prominent traits of her character. She was a member of Galatia church.

Monroe: On June 3, 1915, at his home in Hoke county, N. C., Mr. Elijah Monroe, aged eighty-eight years. He was a member of Galatia church, and for many years he was a cheerful and uncomplaining sufferer. Optimism and contentment were prominent traits of his character.

Wool: On Thursday, July 8, 1915, at his home in Norfolk, Va., Dr. James Harvey Wool, in the forty-ninth year of his age. Interment in Briery church graveyard, Prince Edward county, Va.

MRS. MOLLIE FRANKLIN JONES.

About 1 o'clock, Friday morning, June 18, 1915, with her husband and children all around her, and with a loving parting message for each one, Mrs. Mollie Franklin Jones quietly and sweetly passed into rest.

She was born in Campbell county, Va., March 31, 1859, and early in life she gave her heart to Christ, joining, April 15, 1877, New Concord Presbyterian church, of which she remained a devoted, conscientious, consistent and faithful member to the last.

On February 22, 1882, she was united in marriage with Mr. Bolling Jones, and they were soon established in their own home on Falling River, where she continued to be the light of the household through all the years it pleased God to spare her to her growing and happy family.

Reared herself in a pious, Christian household, and the wife of an earnest Christian man, the family altar was not neglected and the word of God was not forgotten in their home; and as God added one by one to the number of their children, these godly parents trained them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. The husband still lives an honored elder in New Concord church, and all of their eight children are active and consistent members of the church, and the two married daughters are the wives of good Christian men.

Of Mrs. Jones it could well be said: "The heart of her husband doth safely trust in her." "She will do him good, and not evil, all the days of her life." "She looketh well to the ways of her household." "Her children arise up and call her blessed." Her last illness was a protracted one, but with Christian fortitude and cheerfulness she bore her sufferings, with unwavering faith awaiting her Master's call, and looking with confident expectation to the joys to come.

She has left behind her fragrant memories of kindness, sympathy and love to relatives, pastor and friends. In the home, the Sabbath-school, the church and in social life her labors of love were abundant, and wherever she moved, she won the esteem and love of all. The great, silent congregation that filled New Concord church where the funeral services were held, told eloquently of the love and esteem in which she was held by all those who knew her best.

With heavy hearts, loving hands laid her body in the tomb and covered the resting place with nature's choicest flowers.

But as our hearts weep, we sorrow not as those who have no hope, for we are comforted by the strong confidence that she will rise in the resurrection of the just wearing the likeness of the Saviour whom she loved and served while on earth.
